3.4 Subject to Rule 11.4, in the event of no nomination being received for any office, or in the event of insufficient nominations, such vacancies may be filled by the Executive Committee Members so elected for that term.

3.5 Any casual vacancy occurring in the membership of the Executive Committee may be filled at the determination of the Executive Committee but, only until the next election.
APPENDIX 2: POSTAL BALLOTS

1. Any proposal requiring a resolution of Executive Committee Members or Member Councils may be determined at the direction of the Executive Committee by a postal ballot and any resolution carried by postal ballot shall be as effective as if it had been carried at a duly constituted meeting of Executive Committee Members or Member Councils whichever the case may be.

2. Where a postal ballot is held the following shall apply:

a) A ballot paper shall be forwarded to every Executive Committee member or Member Council entitled to vote as provided in these Rules;

g) A resolution by a postal ballot shall be effective from the date the result is laid before the Executive Committee.

3. All ballot papers and reports and Executive Committee Members’ and Member Councils’ completed ballot papers for any postal ballot may be served by any of the methods set out in Rule 20.4, including any form of electronic transmission, approved by the Executive Committee.
APPENDIX 3: STANDARD PREFERENTIAL SYSTEM

1. Election of one candidate

1.1 In this system, a voter is required to indicate a preference for each candidate on the ballot paper by using the numbers 1, 2, 3 etc. up to the number of candidates.

1.2 A candidate must poll an absolute majority (i.e. in excess of 50%) of all formal votes to be elected.

1.3 If, after all first preference votes have been counted, no candidate has obtained an absolute majority of all formal votes, then the candidate with the fewest number of first preference votes is excluded (first preference votes are the number 1s). That excluded candidates' second preference votes are then distributed to the remaining candidates.

1.4 If after that exclusion no candidate has obtained an absolute majority of formal votes, the next remaining candidate with the fewest votes is excluded and ALL of his/her votes (i.e. first preference votes PLUS those votes received from the first excluded candidate) are distributed to the remaining candidates.

1.5 The above process is continued until one candidate obtains an absolute majority of formal votes and is elected.

1.6 If at any exclusion, the next available preference is for a previously excluded candidate, then that preference is disregarded and the vote is distributed to the continuing candidate for whom the next available preference is shown.

1.7 This system of voting is used to elect a (single) member of the House of Representatives.

2. Election of more than one candidate

2.1 In this system the first successful candidate is elected in the manner outlined in the Standard preferential system: Election of one candidate. When the first candidate is elected all ballot papers are sorted back to first preference votes.

2.2 Then, all ballot papers containing a first preference vote for the first elected candidate are distributed to the remaining candidates according to the second preference vote on each of them. A candidate receiving an absolute majority of votes remaining is shown in the count as the second successful candidate.
2.3 If no candidate has then received an absolute majority the candidate with the fewest votes is excluded and his/her votes (first preference and those received from the previously elected candidate) are distributed to the next available preference among the remaining candidates. This process is continued until a candidate has obtained an absolute majority of votes remaining in the count. This candidate is the second elected.

2.4 After the first and second candidates have been elected all ballot papers are sorted back to first preference votes. The ballot papers containing the first preference votes of the two elected candidates are sorted to the next available preference and are distributed among the remaining non-elected candidates. A candidate receiving an absolute majority of votes remaining in the count shall be the third successful candidate.

2.5 If no candidate has then received an absolute majority, the candidate with the fewest votes is excluded and his/her votes (first preference and those received from the previously elected candidates) are distributed to the next available preference among the remaining candidates. This process is continued until a candidate has obtained an absolute majority of votes remaining in the count. This candidate is the third elected.

2.6 If there are more than three candidates to be elected, the above process is repeated until the required number of candidates has been elected.
